What is a Gentleman?

It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say he is one who never inflicts pain.—This description is both refined and, as far as it goes, accurate. He is mainly occupied in merely removing the obstacles which hinder the free and unembarrassed action of those about him; and he concurs with their movements rather than takes the initiative himself. His benefits may be considered as parallel to what are called comforts or conveniences in arrangements of a personal nature; like an easy chair or a good fire, which do their part in dispelling cold or fatigue, though nature provides means of rest and animal heat without them. The true gentleman in like manner carefully avoids whatever may cause a jar or jolt in the minds of those with whom he is cast; all clashing of opinion, or collision of feeling, all restraint, or suspicion, or gloom, or resentment; his great concern being to make every one at their ease and at home. He has his eyes on all his company; he is tender toward the bashful, gentle toward the distant, and merciful to the absurd; he guards against unseasonable allusions or topics which may irritate, he is seldom prominent in conversation, and never wearisome. He makes light of favors while he does them, and seems to be receiving when he is conferring. He never speaks of himself except when compelled, never defends himself by a mere retort; he has no ears for slander or gossip.—Cardinal Newman.

The Turks are a nation of total abstainers from liquor, and yet we would not like to see our people imitate them in their idea of temperance. Their Koran forbids the use of wine, and see what besotted slaves they are to the smoking of narcotics, and what hideous wretches they become in dealing with their enemies in time of war. We would rather see men take a little wine occasionally, and retain some semblance of humanity about them. The only strictly teetotal nation on the face of the earth is a discredit to our common humanity.—Ex.

The Paris Figaro tells a story which Sara Bernhardt tells on herself. When playing in "Ruy Blas," at the Odeon Theater, a fellow threw a loaf of bread at her from the peanut gallery, with the remark that he hoped she would eat it and get a little fatter. The story now circulating about her is that an empty cab drove up to the stage door of Booth's Theater and Sara Bernhardt got out.

An old rich miser named Rhodes, who began making money as a rubbish gatherer and lived and died in squalor, has bequeathed $300,000 between the Royal Free Hospital, London, and the National Lifeboat Institution, leaving his relatives penniless. The will stands, but the charities have given the five next of kin $5,250.

"Why don't he come when the moon is full?" is the first line of a sentimental poem. We can only conceive two substantial reasons why he don't. The first is that probably it is not his desire, and secondly, it is possible he is in the same predicament the moon is.

The house still stands at Salem, Mass., built about 1632 by Roger Williams, in which is a low room, with solid oak beams and timbers, where the witches' trials were held, and whence many victims were led out to die.

If you receive a confidential letter from a New York lawyer stating that you are the sole heir to an immense estate in England, don't celebrate on any drink costing more than water. If you do you will be just so much out of pocket.

A rich but parsimonious old gentleman, on being taken to task for his uncharitableness, said, "True, I don't give much; but if you only knew how it hurts me when I give anything you wouldn't wonder."

"Ma, has aunty got bees in her mouth?" "No, my dear. Why do you ask?" "Cause Captain Dean said he was going to taste the honey from her lips, and she said, 'Well make haste!'"

Five silk dresses and a pair of hundred dollar bracelets are a small part of the wardrobe of a Detroit wife whose husband earns $18 a week. Where can you make money go faster?

A man in Jersey City died the other day from hydrophobia eleven years after a dog had bitten him. The next thing somebody will be taken sick of colic because Eve ate an apple.

In all the researches at Pompeii men have failed to come across one single sign of "No Trust." Those were the days for an honest man to live in.

One of the meanest things a man can do is to break out of a new boiler-plated jail which has cost the taxpayers $20,000.

Find a man in this country who isn't ready to back his assertions with a lie and you'll find he isn't an American.

To be comfortable and contented spend less than you earn, an art which few have learned.

Washington Society in 1830.

In former years the wildest gentlemen used to spend their evenings in decorously playing whist, with frugal suppers of broiled oysters, bread and cheese, and a glass or two of Madiera. The rollicking Jackson men substituted poker for whist, and indulged in frequent libations of whisky, while their supper tables were graced, according to the season, with a baked raccoon, garnished with fried sweet potatoes, or canvass-back ducks, or shad, broiled before a hickory fire on an oak board.—Plantation tobacco in pipes, but few except the Diplomatic Corps indulged in cigars.

Assemblies were held once a week between Christmas day and Ash Wednesday, to which all the respectable ladies in the city who danced were invited. It was also customary for those of the Cabinet officers and other high officials who kept house, to give at least one evening party during each session of Congress, invitations for which were issued. The guests at these parties used to assemble at about 8 o'clock, and after taking off their wraps they descended to the parlor, where the host and hostess received them. The older men then went to the punch-bowl to criticise the "brew" which it contained, while the young people found their way to the dining room, almost invariably devoted to dancing. The music was a piano and two violins, and one of the musicians called the figures for the cotillions and contra-dances. Those who did not dance elbowed their way through the crowd, conversing with acquaintances, and the men frequently taking another glass of punch. At 10 the guests were invited to the supper table, which was often on the wide back porch, which every Washington house had in those days. The table was always loaded with evidences of the culinary skill of the lady of the house; there was a roast ham at one end, a saddle of venison or mutton at the other, and some roasted poultry or wild ducks midway. A great variety of home-baked cake was a source of pride, and there never was any lack of punch, with decanters of Madeira. The diplomats gave champagne, but it was seldom seen except at the legations. At 11 there was a general exodus, and after the usual scramble for hats, cloaks and overshoes, the guests entered their carriages. Sometimes a few intimate friends of the hostess lingered to enjoy a contra-dance, or to take a parting drink of punch, but by midnight the last guest departed, and the servants began to blow out the candles with which the house had been illuminated.—Atlantic Monthly for October.

TALK TO THE CHILDREN.—Children hunger perpetually for new ideas. They will learn with pleasure from the lips of parents what they deem mere drudgery to study in books; and even if they have the misfortune to be deprived of many educational advantages, they will grow up intelligent people. We sometimes see parents who are the life of every company they enter, dull, silent and uninteresting, at home among their children. If they have not mental activity and mental stores sufficient for both, let them first use what they have for their own households. A silent home is a dull place for young people—a place from which they will escape if they can.—How much useful information, and what unconscious, but excellent mental training, in a lively, social argument. Cultivate to the utmost the art of conversation at home.—Methodist Recorder.

A popular author says: "I have no propensity to envy any one, least of all the rich and the great; but if I were disposed to the weakness, the subject of my envy would be a healthy young man, going forth in the morning to work for his wife and children, and bringing them home his wages at night."

A man does not always pass in the world for what is his real intrinsic value. Sometimes, in the mint of public opinion, a hundred cents' worth of man nets only the stamp of a dime; and ten cents' worth is made to appear a dollar.—Springfield Republican.

The Chinese style is one of the fancies of certain Parisian ladies. The dresses they wear are made of quaint and brightly-hued Chinese goods, fitting very close to the figure, and are decidedly short, showing the Chinese shoes, which are pointed at the toes.

At the rising and its setting the sun makes deepest shadows, so at the beginning and towards the close, the careers of great men are most darkened by the neglect or aspersion of the world.

An editor who always embraces his wife just before going down to his office speaks of it as the time for going to press.

A Massachusetts man and his wife, while traveling with their twenty-nine children, were mistaken for a campaign club.

Opportunities are very sensitive things. If you slight them on their first visit you seldom see them again.

One of the kindest things heaven has done for man is denying him the power of looking into the future.

Two of the scoundrels engaged in the Garfield-Chinese letter forgery have been committed for perjury, and one has made a confession, but it will not be made public until certain parties are arrested. This base forgery cost Garfield many a vote, but he was elected all the same, and now we hope to hear of the vile scoundrels who perpetrated, and aided and abetted the infamous wrong elected to the State Prison for a long term of years.

CRIME.

How much longer are the taxpayers of Mono county to submit to being heavily taxed for the keeping, trial and acquittal of murderers? Are the people willing to pay $3,000 to prove that a known murderer is not a murderer? These are the questions that are agitating the public, and it is time that the people should seriously contemplate the situation and take into consideration what measures should be adopted to check the lawlessness which is rampant throughout the county. The criminal record of this county is truly appalling. Thus far, this year, the criminal record has entailed a debt of $40,000 upon the taxridden citizens of this county, and what have they to show in return for this? Nothing. Over 300 jurors were summoned to attend Court during the trial of six men charged with the crime of murder; they were taken from their business at great expense of time and money, and all for naught. The general opinion was that the prisoners were guilty of murder and should have been hanged. However, the quibbles and uncertainties of law overslaughed Justice, and the murderers were acquitted. The people tire of this and want a "change." They demand it, and will have it. They simply ask that murderers be made to understand that sure and swift punishment will be meeted out to them. The wife-murder near Goat Ranch and the shooting of Robbins at Bridgeport have aroused the community to the necessity of preventing such work in the future. As a general thing Courts have but little terror for murderers; a large majority escape punishment. Not so, however, with a Vigilance Committee. Stern Justice presides there, and a wholesome terror is imparted to its edicts; decrees issued by Justice and Right. San Francisco, Sacramento, Aurora, and Placerville never had more cause for an organization of this kind than Mono county does at this time.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

MAP OF BODIE MINING DISTRICT.—We acknowledge the receipt of a fine Map of Bodie Mining District, surveyed and compiled by C. L. Anderson, of Bodie, one of the most competent civil engineers on this coast, and illustrated and published by Edward Eysen, who will accept our thanks for the same. This map is about sixty-four inches long by about forty-four in width, and exhibits every worthy mining claim in the district, from accurate surveys by Mr. Anderson. The border of the map gives excellent views of all the hoisting works and mills from the Syndicate Mill on the north to the Queen Bee on the south. The lower border shows the town of Bodie in all its majesty and lovliness. These drawings were made by Mr. Eysen, and show him to be an artist of great merit. The whole work is very creditable to Engineer Anderson and Mr. Eysen, and it should meet with a ready sale among those interested in the Bodie district. The maps can be had at the Bodie Bank for $5 each, and they are well worth it. Each map is accompanied by a pamphlet giving the dates of location and record of each claim represented on the map.

FOUND DEAD.—On Tuesday last the body of John Dillon was found on a wood road leading from the Geiger grade, between here and Bodie. A bottle of laudanum was found in his pocket. He left Bodie on Monday, and, showing the bottle to a friend, remarked that it would settle John Dillon. He was a native of Maryland, and aged 50 years.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Sunday last Lucius B. Brandenburg, a teamster in the employ of G. B. Day, was run over by his wagon and killed. In getting off his horse his foot caught in the brake strap, throwing him under the wheel. He was a native of Missouri, and aged 25 years.

TRANSFERRED.—Judge Wiggin, of Superior Court—Department No. 2, has transferred his cases to Department No. 1, Judge Briggs presiding. Judge Wiggin will leave for San Francisco shortly for a month or two recreation.

TERRY'S VOTE.—David S. Terry, the Democratic elector, ran behind his ticket in [illegible] ten votes. He ran behind his [illegible] the State enough to insure his defeat.

CONVICTED.—Yesterday, before Judge Briggs, English was convicted of burglary in the first degree, and Johnson plead guilty.

COLD.—The weather this week was cold, the nights exceedingly so, the thermometer registering 16 degrees above zero at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, and 14 degrees this morning.

BODIE ITEMS.

Our sister town of Bodie has witnessed another terrible disaster—the burning of the Goodshaw hoisting works at about 1½ o'clock on Tuesday morning, and the death by suffocation of four miners working in the 600 level—Hugh Smith, Anthony Jackson, John Blake and Duncan McRae, and the probable death of Lowel Parker, the engineer on duty. The fire was first noticed by Superintendent Buckley, who lives near the mine, and had just retired to bed. He ran over the shaft and alarmed the men below, and then ordered the engineer to lower the bucket, but getting no response he started for the engine and was driven back by the flames, the fire having broke out in that part of the building. The fire spread with great rapidity, and in half an hour the entire works were totally destroyed. The shaft timbers burned some distance down, but Foreman Ward, of the Babcock Engine Company, by hard work, succeeded in getting that machine to the works, and Mr. Ward and his company did good work in extinguishing the fire, enabling the erection of temporary works over the shaft in order to rescue the men in the mine, if alive. The men were found in the 600 level lying face down, dead. The bodies were raised to the surface and taken to Miners' Union Hall, where an inquest was held by Coroner Deal, the jury returning a verdict charging the engineer with criminal negligence. It is thought by many that Parker, the engineer, was under the influence of liquor and asleep when the fire caught in the wood near the boiler, and upon awakening and seeing the result of his carelessness, fled from town; but his friends believe that he was burned to death, or, in trying to alarm the men below, fell down the shaft, and that his remains will yet be found in the sump of the shaft.

Of the victims of this terrible disaster, Jackson was a native of Ireland, aged 46, and left a wife in Bodie; Smith was a native of Ireland, aged 34, and left a wife and two children in Bodie; he was a member of the Masonic Order, and left a $5000 life insurance policy in the Masonic Northwestern Aid Association. Blake is said to have left a family in Connecticut. McRea was a young man, single, a native of Canada, where his mother resides, and leaves a brother in Bodie. Smith was buried under the auspices of the Masons of Bodie, and Jackson and Blake by the Miners' Union on Wednesday afternoon, the funerals being largely attended by a sympathizing people. McRea's remains were embalmed and will be forwarded to Canada.

A WIFE MURDERED.—On Saturday night last Job Draper, who was living near the Goat Ranch, on the Bodie and Mono Lake road, beat his wife to death with a loaded black-snake whip in a drunken quarrel.—News of the murder was received here on Sunday, when Justice Newman went out and held an inquest, the verdict of the jury charging Draper with the murder. Undertaker Ward went out and brought in the body, which was viewed by a large number of citizens. The face and head exhibited the work of a fiend, being terribly cut and discolored. The frail limbs and body, also, showed horrible bruises and cuts made by the whip. Draper was arrested at his cabin, immediately after the inquest, by Constable Stebbins and lodged in the Bodie jail. Justice Newman, after an examination, committed Draper to await the action of the next grand jury. The people of this county should not be put to the expense of a trial of such a fiend.

ACCIDENTS.—This week has been prolific of accidents in the Bodie mines. On Tuesday morning two miners in the Tioga mine were cut on the head by falling rocks, but not seriously injured. Edward Casey, a miner at the Standard, had a leg fractured, which was attended to by Dr. Deal; a man was injured in the Bulwer tunnel, and an engineer at the Noonday had a finger injured.

A good looking young lady was caught the other evening smoking a cigar, and gave as a reason for the act, "that it made it smell as though there was a man around."

In the matter of the Estate of William Miller, Deceased.

It appearing to me, Judge of this Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by the Administrators of the Estate of William Miller, deceased, praying for an Order of Sale of real estate: that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate to pay the allowance to the family, the claims against the estate and the expenses and charges of Administration.

Dated Oct. 21, 1880.
